The fourth section of the brigade signal corps, commanded by Lieutenant Cogill, was yesterday detailed to New London to establish a signal station on the tower of the Croker House in that place. The section signaled to camp by means of the hellograph system through an intermediate station on Durfee Hill, which was under command of Lieutenant Jenkins. Another station of the signal corps was at brigade headquarters, where the signals from New London were received. This station was in charge of Lieutenant General Haven sent a dispatch to New London by this means, and various signals were dispatched, the men reading all of them with ease The second section of the signal corps. consisting of New Haven men, were assigned to guard duty around headquarters.

AT GUARD MOUNT.

At 1:30 there was the regular guard mount, and as the squads of detail marched out from the various company streets, a very pretty sight was presented. The Second Regiment band attracted especial attention by their easy movements. Around the field was gathered a larger concourse of sight seers than usual, and at the west end of the field was a particularly large group of ladies, who seemed much interested in these scenes of mimic warfare. Soon after guard mount, the artillery drill was held and several maneuvres with the Gatling guns were gone through with all being done neatly, and with dispatch.

Among those on the governor's stand watching the drills were: Mrs. Miller, wife of Colonel Watson J. Miller, president of the Derby Silver company; Mrs. Disbrow of Bridgeport, Mrs. Henry S. Peck of New Haven, and Miss Munson of Seymour, Miss Landers, daughter of Colonel Landers. The ladies all seem ed to enjoy immensely the military

TOOTS FROM THE BAND.

Band Master Fichtl is receiving numerous congratulations upon the very efficient manner in which the Second Regiment band are attending to camp dutles, 100 per cent. being to their credit at all inspections thus far. The band street being the first inspected, they are setting an example which the officers of the regiment are justly proud of. The concerts of the band are very numerously attended from all parts of the brigade, and a more quiet or appreclative audience would be hard to find Camp life with the band is as usual ot without its numerous incidents of fun and practical jokes. Genial Louis

Felsburgh is attending to this part of the weeks program in his usual dignified manner August Schmidt is giving nightly in structions in modern languages, being very proficient in many dialects. Fred Guilford has made application for a detail of eleven men to come ome to hoe his garden, as he has one he fears is being neglected while he is
